Each month our television show features a human services topic of interest to local residents. We've produced consistent programming each month since January 2006. Normally a program or service provided by one of our three direct services divisions... Behavioral Health Services; Children, Youth & Family Services and Developmental Services are featured. On occasion, a topic of a global nature, relevant to the entire NCSS organization, is discussed with either Ted Mable, one of our Psychiatrist's or an Administration staff member as the guest.

The monthly television show, as one element of the NCSS marketing mix, is intended to inform and educate the community on the diverse services that NCSS offers each day. Normally the show airs six times within the first two weeks of the month. Also, the schedule is set up for the show to air at some point within the different day parts of the day. Therefore, depending on the viewers work schedule etc. providing them with an opportunity to view the show. The dates and times that the January episode will air are listed below:
